The Holy Bible - when I first started home schooling I came back to my Bible again and again. I found scripture to defend my beliefs that I was called to be a Keeper at Home, that I was the one the Lord had chosen to train up my children. This has been my greatest resource in my journey.

AN ESSENTIAL SET OF HOMESCHOOLING RESOURCES

I feel very strongly that every family should know about and make use of the following resources as they apply to your individual family needs.

Home School Legal Defense Association - I feel that this is my "insurance policy" for our homeschool. I would recommend with the number of zealous caseworkers, and the news stories that abound about them overstepping their legal boundaries, that any family, but especially those headed by single mothers, consider membership as an essential part of your homeschooling budget.

Phone: (540) 338-5600 Fax: (540) 338-2733 E-mail: info@hslda.org

HSLDA - California Single Mother Wins Civil Rights Case
<http://www.hslda.org/docs/news/hslda/200109270.asp>

HSLDA - Susan Oliver: Convicted—even though this mom did everything right
<http://www.hslda.org/courtreport/v17n5/v17n501.asp>

HSLDA - Department of Education Opposes Single Parents
<http://www.hslda.org/hs/state/ne/200601100.asp>

HSLDA - A Widow Tells Her Story
<http://www.hslda.org/courtreport/V16N4/V16N401.asp>

Homeschool Foundation - This resource is their to help and support homeschooling families in need. They have a variety of funds available to homeschooling families based on their specific situations. I've just copied and pasted their descriptions of each fund here, with the link directly to their site.

E-mail: info@homeschoolfoundation.org

Members Helping Members Fund - In the last few months, a number of Home School Legal Defense Association member families have been telling us that they are being negatively affected by the downturn in the economy—by either losing a job or having their salary reduced. Many have reported being laid off by an airline or related employer. If your family has been blessed with financial stability, and you would like to extend a helping hand to a fellow home school family, we have established the Members

Helping Members Fund scholarship fund to assist families with their HSLDA memberships.

Compassion Fund - All undesignated gifts to the Home School Foundation will go into its "Compassion Fund." Monies in this fund are used to cover the Foundation's printing costs, give grants to local home school support groups around the country, and support other home-school related causes.

Widows Fund - Each year we hear from many member families who have lost a parent to death. Oftentimes, their heartbreak is compounded by financial constraints which make continuing home schooling difficult. Until now, all we have been able to offer these families was our heartfelt sympathy. Now, with the establishment of the Widows Fund, we are able to meet the needs of widows and orphans in a tangible way. This endeavor truly enables dedicated mothers to continue directing the education of their children at home

Special Needs Children's Fund - An increasing number of families with special needs children have begun seeking the benefits of home schooling and the services of HSLDA. Approximately 10 percent of HSLDA member families indicate they are home schooling a child with special learning needs. In 1993, HSLDA realized that more guidance was needed for these families and hired a consultant to assist our families with learning needs of their children. The Special Needs Children's Fund is designed to assist home schooling families with the financial challenges of privately meeting the academic needs of their special needs child.

GENERAL RESOURCES, ARTICLES, TESTIMONIES, ETC.

Defending the Fatherless by Doug Phillips - This is THE resource I recommend to single mom's who are considering home education, and church leader's who have single mom's within their congregation. <http://www.visionforum.com/booksandmedia/productdetail.aspx?categoryid=126&viewall=1&productid=68210> 4719 Blanco Rd., San Antonio, TX 78212 Telephone: (210) 340-5250

Homeschool Oasis - I discovered the Single-Mom's Homeschooling articles on this site, at about the same time I discovered Raggedy Janet. It gave me so much hope. I now knew that there were at least four other single mom's out there that were home schooling, so I wasn't completely crazy in my efforts. http://www.homeschooloasis.com/art\_single\_mom\_hs.htm

Single Parent's Can Homeschool by Linda Joyce Heaner - This is an excellent article of encouragement, that I found in two different places. Linda talks about many practical things that face single moms who are trying to home educate, be the keeper at home and often times the sole financial supporter of their family. I feel blessed to have found this article. It is very encouraging. www.crosswalk.com/family/home\_school/1335894.html

My Life As A Single Parent Homeschooler by Brenda Covert - This is a great testimony of why and how single mom's should and do choose to home school their children. www.harvesthomeeducators.com/morearticles.php?item=7

Homeschool Success Story by Linda Bothel - This is a great reminder that we are called to home educate and where the Lord will's it, there is a way to achieve it. www.homeschoolchristian.com/Success/LindaB.html

Fears of a Single Mom by Lori Little - This article was amazing to me. In addition to feeling totally alone as a single mother who was home educating, I have also felt totally alone as I struggled with fear and panic over the years. This addressed all of that in a way that glorifies the Lord beautifully. It is a must read for all single mom's. www.crosswalk.com/family/parenting/1352831.html

A Single Parent's Call to Outrageous Faith by Janet Whitley - This dear lady talks about walking by faith and truly the minute a single mom decides to embrace the high calling of Keeper at Home, she begins walking by faith as she may never have before. It is a very encouraging article about what the Lord can do when we let him, and how he rewards our obedience to his ultimate will for our lives. www.crown.org/Library/ViewArticle.aspx?ArticleID=150

God's Gracious Hand: An Interview with Melanie Taggart by Mrs. Sherman - This is an amazing story of the Lord's grace and mercy. It is truly a Romans 8:28 situation.

Looking After Widows and Orphans: How You Can Help Single-Parent Families by Mary Jo Tate - This is another dear lady I've had the privilege and blessing of getting to know during the last couple of months. Mary Jo is a freelance writer, and a single mother who's chosen to home educate and be a keeper at home. This article was first published in Family Reformation Magazine.
www.homeschoolblogger.com/SingleParentsatHome/56407

A Single Mom Reflects on Her Heavenly Father's Love By Pat Bernshausen - This is an excellent article of encouragement! www.singleness.org/singlemom.shtml

FREE CURRICULUMS/LOW COST CURRICULUMS CURRICULUM HELP RESOURCES

Robinson's Self-Teaching Curriculum - This is definitely a cost-effective curriculum for those on a limited budget. There are over 200 books on CD for a reasonable price. They also offer a scholarship program, where you can simply pay what you can afford. There are no frills. It's literature is worth the investment. I own this curriculum. They also offer a discount on Saxon Math products as that is the Math curriculum they recommend using. The curriculum isn't for everyone, but if you have nothing and need something to get started this is a great place to start.
For more information contact: <http://www.robinsoncurriculum.com> 3321 Sesame Dr., Howell, MI 48843
Phone: (517)546-8780 robinsoncurriculum@yahoo.com

Ambleside Online - This is a FREE online curriculum that covers Year 0 - 12. It is an advanced curriculum, with an excellent literature program. It also has a very strong fine arts element to it. It is a Charlotte Mason based curriculum. I have also used parts of this one in my homeschooling.
<http://www.amblesideonline.org>

Women at Home University - This is not an actual university, but a FREE ministry that offers a list of over 1000 titles that provide insight into all areas of being a keeper at home. They have a neat article on how the ministry got started, too. I think this is definitely the best Keepers at Home website, in terms of those of us training up younger women. The list is broken down into four years worth of reading (hence the "university"). <http://www.womenathomeuniversity.org>

Free Stuff for Homeschoolers - At Homeschool Blogger we have our own Free Stuff lady. Her blog site is just full of resources for the homeschooler. Be sure to check it out.
<http://www.homeschoolblogger.com/FreeStuffForHomeschoolers>

All Things In Common - Acts 2:44 -- A blogsite hosted by Homeschool Blogger to help and encourage those in need from those who are able to share and exchange curriculum.
<http://www.homeschoolblogger.com/AllThingsInCommon>

Book Samaritan - An awesome site that asks homeschoolers to donate the curriculum they no longer need or use, it is then redistributed to families who have need for curriculum. They ask that when families are through they either return or redistribute for free the materials they have received.
<http://booksamaritan.com>

Old Fashioned Education - This is an AMAZING site! It is a directory of free curricula, literature and textbooks organized for the use of homeschooling families. She has weekly plans for all grades as well as book lists and direct links to the source for books recommended. I love this site as much as I love Robinson's Self-Teaching curriculum, maybe more, only because it's FREE.

MUST READ BOOKS

When You Rise Up by R.C. Sproul Jr. - This little book contains a great wealth of information. I found it caused me to rethink the “why” of my homeschooling efforts. Why am I doing this? So my children will be really, really smart? Well, hopefully yes, but... Should this be the reason why Christians home educate? Mr. Sproul directs us to consider eternity, the furtherance of the kingdom of our Lord and the real reasons that Christians should bring their children home, to train them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. A “must read” for all Christian parents!

God, I Need Help by Linda Heaner - This is an EXCELLENT resource for any single mother. It is especially encouraging to those of us who feel called to home educate. The book is the story of Linda’s first ten years as a single parent. It is amazing to see the Lord’s hand of protection and provision on Linda and her children. It once again proves that with the Lord NOTHING is impossible.

ONLINE SUPPORT & RESOURCES

Single Parents & Home Education - This is my personal blogsite, where you’ll find challenges, inspirations, and little pieces of my life as a single, home educating, parent. If you read something here that encourages you, please leave a comment. <http://www.homeschoolblogger.com/maggieraye>

Jehovah-Jireh Mission - This is my “other” blog. This site is specifically to list resources available to the general public that I feel would be an encouragement to single parents who either are considering or who have begun their home education journey. This is updated as often as I come across new resources. <http://www.homeschoolblogger.com/jehovahjireh>

Raggedy Janet’s - This was one of the very first websites I discovered dedicated to single mom’s who were home educating. When I found this, back in 2002, I was the only single mother I knew of who was home educating. It was a gold mine of blessings. Since that time, I’ve become acquainted with Janet, via email and a yahoo group that we are both members of. This has also been a blessing. <http://www.pineblossomswebpages.com/raggedyjanet/singleparenthomeschooling.shtml>

Homespun Hearts Website - A website of resources for single moms, home educators and keepers at home. Be prepared to spend some time here as there are many resources to be explored. <http://www.homespunhearts.org>

Homebased Christian Single Parents - A website of support and encouragement, especially for single mothers who feel called to be keepers at home. A lot of focus on work from home opportunities and scams to watch for. <http://home-based-christian-single-parents.com/>

Single and Working Parents at A to Z Home’s Cool. with Ann Zeise - - I admit, this is one of my favorite homeschool resources websites in general, the link to “Single and Working Parents” definitely offers some insight and good ideas. The site in general is one of those where you could be there for hours, just surfing around, checking things out. Make sure you have plenty of time before you start.

Considering Homeschooling - This web based ministry is one that absolutely amazes me. Their focus is on Christian parents of infants, toddlers, preschool and those who have their children in the public education system. If you know someone who is thinking about whether or not they should start home educating, this is THE site to send them too. There are excellent resources here.

Telephone: (714) 633-8074 info@consideringhomeschooling.org

Single Parent Homeschool - I have been blessed to be a part of this ministry. It is a part of Considering Homeschooling's ministry. Here single parents can find words of encouragement, resources, links to free homeschooling magazine subscriptions, etc. This is another one of those "ultimate resource" links, but then I'm prejudiced. <http://www.singleparenthomeschool.org>

Exodus Mandate - This site offers resources to help Christian families understand the important need to remove their children from public education and home educate them in accordance with the Bible. This Columbia, South Carolina-based ministry, sponsors Homeschooling Family-To-Family (www.homeschoolingfamilytofamily.org), which seeks to grow homeschooling by enlisting experienced Christian homeschoolers as "homeschool evangelists."

raymoore@exodusmandate.org

SINGLE DADS & HOME EDUCATION

Homeschooldads.com - This online resource looks to contain a wealth of information for dad's who are active in or considering home education for their families. At present they have no information specifically addressing single fathers needs, however, they seem very open to the idea.

The K-Dad Network - A blog site started by Scott Somerville, to support and encourage homeschool fathers to network with each other. Although not specifically for single fathers who are home educating, it can be a source of support and encouragement. <http://www.k-dad.net>

FREE MAGAZINE SUBSCRIPTIONS A LITTLE LUXURY FOR SINGLE MOTHERS

I absolutely love magazines, especially homeschooling magazines. However, being a single mom, with an extremely limited budget for home education supplies, magazines are low on the priority list. I've borrowed from the library, and from friends, but it's just not the same as having your own copy to look at lug around, and share with others.

The Old Schoolhouse Magazine- Free 1 year Subscription to those who truly cannot afford a subscription This was the second homeschooling magazine I was introduced to (never mind what the first one was) and it is by far, THE BEST one out there. I was blessed two consecutive years with free subscriptions. Of course, again, I know I am prejudiced, but I really think any single mother would find it to be a blessing.
PO Box 1701, Dandridge, TN 37725

Homeschool Enrichment Magazine - This free 1 year subscription is offered through Single Parent Homeschool by the publishers of Homeschool Enrichment to single parents, in an effort to be a blessing to them. PO Box 163
Pekin, IL 61555

Homeschool Digest - This free 1 year subscription is offered through Single Parent Homeschool by the publishers of Homeschool Digest to single parents, in an effort to be a blessing to them.
Wisdom's Gate, PO Box 374-www, Covert, MI 49043

Above Rubies - This is a free publication to all. It is a quarterly magazine which focuses on the call for women to embrace their roles as wife and mother, the way the Lord intended them to be. Even as a single mother, I've found the articles to be a blessing and an encouragement. PO Box 681687, Franklin, TN 37068-1687, U.S.A.

Phone: 931 729 9861

EMAIL: Nancy@AboveRubies.org

No Greater Joy - This is a free publication to all. It is a quarterly magazine which focuses on child rearing, families and home education. Again, although not designed for the specific needs of the single mother, there are many articles of encouragement and some great Biblical resources to be found here. 1000 Pearl Road, Pleasantville, TN 37033

HOMESCHOOLING RESOURCES

Homeschool Tracker - This has to be one of my favorite tools for home education. There are two reasons. The first is I'm a compulsive organizer. This helps me keep it together. It's a great way to keep track of everything on the computer. The second reason is that it's FREE. Not just a free trial, but the basic version is totally FREE. If you want to upgrade to the Plus edition you do have to pay a one time fee. A college friend who is also a homeschooling mom bought me the Plus version last year as an encouragement gift. I've made it well worth her investment. Another side note I need to add, is that Katie Gentile is absolutely amazing when it comes to tech support. I am computer illiterate and that dear lady has been there and walked me through the most unusual situations. So the personal tech support is also a biggie for me.

Child Evangelism Fellowship - This ministry is so incredible. The reason I've added it here is that they offer a free correspondence Bible study for all levels. I don't know about everyone else, but my kiddo's love getting mail. And this is mail worth getting. They usually have local chapters so check the main sight for the one nearest you. www.cefonline.com

Project Gutenberg - I don't know about you, but I have a serious addiction to books. There are never enough shelves in my "library" to house the books I have, wish I had, am planning on having, etc. This site is an excellent resource for FREE online books, most (if not all) are books which are out of print and would otherwise be unavailable. Go by, check it out, download, print, and read, read, read!
