How to overcome your fears of starting a podcast. I have always been podcast averse but never quite able to put my finger on why. Then I read a pitch from Copyblogger for a podcast seminar. Demian Farnworth listed pretty much all my fears. Forty percent of the Top 25 podcasts with a regular posting schedule publish once per week. The next most common frequency is twice per week. Of the Top 25, only three podcasts did not have a discernible schedule to their posting. It seems that some publishing rhythm is preferred over no rhythm. Podcasts to learn from. Podcast Length and Frequency There's no ideal length for a podcast, but having an idea of how long you might like each episode to run will help you stay focused during the editing process. Similarly, you can decide on a daily, weekly or monthly publishing schedule; just ensure you are consistent as this will help you (and your listeners) get into a regular habit. Striving for Consistency Your artwork is a key part of your branding and should tie in with everything else associated with your podcast like your website and social media accounts. Podcast Marketing. Don't let all your hard work go to waste.
